FLY WITH ME by Lanre Akinsiku (Young Adult)
DELIVERY: DECEMBER 2018

The story of Wale, an outcast whose sister Gracie reportedly flew away and whose mom has gone crazy looking for her. Wale's friendship with Zoë (new in town, also a loner, takes care of her sick father) stalls as he tries to figure out how to connect with/impress her. Wale gets desperate and begins reading Gracie's journals, which are full of incantations, poems, and stories, and eventually uses them to connect with Zoë. As their relationship blossoms, Zoë reveals that her father is dying, that after he dies she'll be forced to live with a mother she hates, and that she's looking for a way out. Gracie returns and renounces her gifts, calling her journals and journey too dangerous to repeat. Zoë's father dies and, against Gracie's advice, Zoë begins preparing to fly; Wale is left to decide whether he'll go with her.

Lanre Akinsiku is the author under the pseudonym of LJ Alonge of four books in The Blacktop series about a group of neighborhood kids who bond over basketball.

THINKING WITHOUT A BANISTER by Hannah Arendt, edited by Jerome Kohn (essays)
PUBLICATION: March 2018

While writing some of the most influential works of the twentieth century such as Origins of Totalitarianism and The Human Condition, Hannah Arendt was contributing essays, lectures, speeches, reviews, and interviews to various publications. Now, for the first time, these contributions have been collected and edited by Jerome Kohn in Thinking Without a Banister.

Hannah Arendt was born in Hanover, Germany, in 1906, fled to Paris in 1933, and came to the United States after the fall of France at the outbreak of World War II. She was the editorial director of Schocken Books from 1946 to 1948, and taught at Berkeley, Cornell, Princeton, the University of Chicago, and The New School for Social research. Arendt died in 1975.

FREE SPEECH CAPITALISM: JOURNALISM, DEMOCRACY & SILICON VALLEY by Emily Bell and Taylor Owen (non-fiction)
DELIVERY: AUGUST 2018

For the last six years, longtime journalists and Professors of Journalism, Emily Bell and Taylor Owen, have been conducting research for the Tow Center for Digital Journalism at the Columbia Journalism School on the intersection of technology and journalism, specifically the ever-expanding role Silicon Valley has come to play in the industry. This work, and the dozens of other research projects Bell and Owen have developed for the Tow Center, will form the grounding for Free Speech Capitalism: Journalism, Democracy and Silicon Valley – though in this new endeavor, Bell and Owen plan to expand their research and writing to include not only the history of how Silicon Valley “broke” journalism but a proposal for how to “fix” it, exploring the problematic foundations of a surveillance economy, the power of new technologies, and the threat all of the above pose to democracy.

Before being named a Professor of Practice and the Director of the Tow Center for Digital Journalism at the Columbia Journalism School, Emily Bell worked as a leading print and online journalist and editor for over twenty years. The majority of Emily’s career was spent at Guardian News and Media, first as a reporter and business editor for The Observer newspaper, moving in 2000 to take charge of the Guardian’s network of websites.

Taylor Owen is an Assistant Professor of Digital Media and Global Affairs at the University of British Columbia and a Senior Fellow at the Columbia Journalism School. He is also the author, most recently, of Disruptive Power: The Crisis of the State in the Digital Age (Oxford University Press, 2015) and the co-editor of The World Won’t Wait: Why Canada Needs to Rethink its Foreign Policies (University of Toronto Press, 2015, with Roland Paris), Journalism After Snowden: The Future of the Free Press in the Surveillance State (Columbia University Press, 2017, with Emily Bell) and The Platform Press: How Silicon Valley Re-engineered Journalism (Tow Center 2017, with Emily Bell).

GODSHOT by Chelsea Bieker (debut fiction)
PUBLICATION: 2020

Fourteen-year-old Lacey May Herd is in trouble. Serious trouble. And there’s no one, it seems, in the whole of Peaches, California who can help. Her troubled mother has run off with a man she met through her job as a phone sex operator. Her grandmother, Cherry, is more concerned with her taxidermy mice than with Lacey’s struggles. And the rest of her community – including her cousin, Lyle, and their Pastor, Olaf – are preoccupied with the drought that’s settled on their Central Valley town, bankrupting the area’s once-lucrative raisin farms, and the church’s upcoming revival, which Olaf promises will, at long last, ‘bring the rain.’

Chelsea Bieker received her MFA from Portland State University and is the recipient of a MacDowell Colony fellowship. Her work has been published, or is forthcoming, in McSweeney’s, Catapult, Joyland, and elsewhere. Godshot is her first novel and will be followed by a short story collection which was part of this two book deal. She is the recipient of a 2018 Rona Jaffe Award.

THE FUTURE OF ISRAEL by Omri Boehm (non-fiction)
PROPOSAL AVAILABLE

THE FUTURE OF ISRAEL, puts forward a new form of liberal Zionism. Omri Boehm sees the two-state solution as dead and finds suicidal the current Israeli politics of one state defined by “apartheid with a human face” when 50% of the population is Palestinian. In practical terms, he realizes a considerable degree of division must and will remain, or the result could be civil war beyond anything yet known. He suggests a solution under which Israel’s inhabitants will all have equal rights. His book shows ways to manage this and offers a new case for hope and a positive outcome.

Omri Boehm is an Israeli philosopher and political commentator who teaches at the New School for Social Research.

OUTSIDE LOOKING IN by T.C. Boyle (novel)
DELIVERED

LSD has come out of the closet in recent years to once again establish its legitimacy as a psychiatric tool, almost as if it's been invented anew. Outside Looking In takes us back to the early 1960s to examine how the drug first came to be—and how its special entheogenic properties took it out of the lab and into the streets. After a set piece dramatizing the first synthesis and use of LSD in 1943 in Basel, the novel focuses on a coterie of Timothy Leary's grad students in the early 1960s at Harvard as they become increasingly interested in and entranced by the drug's possibilities. The protagonists—Fitzhugh Loney, a Ph.D. student in psychology, and his wife, Joanie—are gradually drawn in to the point at which research with the drug becomes less a matter of clinical trials and academic papers and more a freewheeling exploration of group dynamics, mind-expansion and communal living. The story, roughly following the actual history of Leary's inner circle, takes us through the Loneys' initiation at one of Leary's parties to his summer seminars at the Hotel Catalina in Zihuatanejo and finally, after their expulsion from Harvard, to the communal experiment at Millbrook, New York, in which the group of thirty devotees, students, wives and children live together in a grand sixty-four-room mansion and devote themselves to experimentation without stint.

Does the drug disarm you? Does it suck you into a life you couldn't have imagined? Is it a belief system? Does it allow you to see God? Can the Loneys' marriage—can any marriage—survive the group sex and the brother- and sisterhood of the deepest persistent use of psychedelic drugs? Is reality real? Who are we? Where are we? Why are we? Trip along with Fitzhugh and Joanie and find out.

FOURSOME by Carolyn Burke (biography)
PUBLICATION: MARCH 2019

The most sensational art event in Manhattan during the winter of 1921 was Alfred Stieglitz's portrait series of Georgia O'Keeffe—45 graphic black and white photographs of her hands, breast, neck, and face, but especially the provocative close-ups of her nude torso. The Master's first show in eight years, it marked the renewal of his creative zest through his liaison with the artist and her emergence as a public figure—one of the new women who seemed to take their autonomy for granted. At the show's opening in the large, light-filled Park Avenue gallery, shocked Manhattanites whispered to each other about the demurely dressed O'Keeffe, whose composure that night made a striking contrast to her unconventional presence on the wall. Perhaps the most attentive members of the crowd, the photographer Paul Strand and his wife-to-be, Rebecca Salsbury, may have replied that stimulated by the example of Steiglitz and O'Keeffe, they too were engaged in a portrait series, with Rebecca—who bore a resemblance to Georgia—as Paul's muse and model. What they could not have known was that their union would be entwined with that of the older couple for over a decade. Three of these interlinked lives have long dominated accounts of American modern art; the fourth, Rebecca Salsbury Strand James (her full complement of names) remains almost unknown. This book explores the ways in which the foursome inspired, excited, and unsettled each other while playing out their dreams of artistic innovation “in the American grain.”

THE PERILOUS ADVENTURES OF THE COWBOY KING: A NOVEL OF TEDDY ROOSEVELT AND
by Jerome Charyn (novel)

PUBLICATION: January 2019

Raising the literary bar to a new level, Jerome Charyn re-creates the voice of Theodore Roosevelt, the New York City police commissioner, Rough Rider, and soon- to-be twenty-sixth president through his derring-do adventures, effortlessly combining superhero dialogue with haunting pathos. Beginning with his sickly childhood and concluding with McKinley's assassination, the novel positions Roosevelt as a “perfect bull in a china shop,” a fearless crime fighter and pioneering environmentalist who would grow up to be our greatest peacetime president.

“Warning: don't turn to the first page of Jerome Charyn's remarkable new work of fiction The Perilous Adventures of the Cowboy King unless you have time to be utterly swept away for the next ___ hours.”

- Joyce Carol Oates

Jerome Charyn is the author of, most recently, A Loaded Gun: Emily Dickinson for the 21st Century, Bitter Bronx: Thirteen Stories, I Am Abraham: A Novel of Lincoln and the Civil War, and The Secret Life of Emily Dickinson: A Novel.

PICASSO by Annie Cohen Solal
DELIVERY: MARCH 2020

Annie Cohen Solal's Picasso reexamines the life of one of the world's most famous and celebrated artists, Pablo Picasso. Solal explores Picasso's debut onto the French art scene through an often forgotten lens: his identity as a "foreigner". Although Picasso spent the majority of his adult life in France, from 1900 to 1973, Solal argues that his work was largely influenced by the political and social context of his ever-persisting outsider identity. Picasso presents a study of the artist's life, separated into periods of artistic, geographic, political, and personal exile.

FREEDOM BOUND by Ian Desai (non-fiction)
PUBLICATION: FALL 2019

Beyond his reputation as one of the modern world's great individual heroes, Mahatma Gandhi actually relied on a tremendous human enterprise to support his crusade for India's independence. Behind Gandhi's accomplishments—and at the very heart of his enterprise—were tens of thousands of books that he and his co-workers collected, read, and used in their struggle for freedom. Far from being a lone genius, Gandhi's greatest skill was marshaling the best human and intellectual resources he could find towards his goal of releasing India from the material and psychological bonds of empire. Despite its massive impact on modern Indian history, Gandhi's enterprise has gone virtually unnoticed for decades, forgotten in the shadow of the towering icon of the Mahatma it helped to produce. Now, based on years of research in the extant libraries that supported the Mahatma and his movement, this book uncovers the hidden story of a community that used knowledge as its most potent weapon against imperialism and pursued a path to freedom paved by books. This story offers an intricate account of how the right books, in the hands of the right readers, can help realize a more humane, peaceful, and united human future.

Ian Desai is a postdoctoral associate and lecturer at Yale University, where he teaches courses on Modern Indian History, including a seminar on Gandhi. Desai received his doctorate in History from the University of Oxford while studying on a Rhodes scholarship.

LIGHTS ALL NIGHT LONG by Lydia Fitzpatrick (debut novel)
PUBLICATION: SPRING 2019

LIGHTS ALL NIGHT LONG is the stunning story of Ilya Alexandrovich Ekhlakov and his older brother, Vladimir. Two brothers who live in Berlozhniki, a refinery town on the edge of the arctic circle, where they spend their days watching bootleg American VHSs and their nights sleeping head-to-toe on the pull-out couch in their apartment. Ilya is a lingual prodigy; Vladimir the worst student at School #652 and an avid explorer of Berlozhniki's seedier side. Still, the brothers are close, their love a careful balance of admiration and jealousy. When Ilya is tapped for an exchange program between Berlozhniki and an American refinery town, that balance is upset and Vladimir disappears into Berlozhniki's underworld.

That winter, Ilya's last in Russia, a new drug called krokodil surfaces in Berlozhniki and three women are murdered. Just as Ilya is about to depart for America, Vladimir is charged with the murders. Ilya arrives in Effie, Louisiana heartbroken, and in no mood to assimilate. But with the help of his host parents' daughter - a local girl with secrets of her own - he embarks on a mission to prove Vladimir's innocence. Lights All Night Long is a thrilling story of the fierce love between brothers, the sacrifices we make for family, and the power the past holds over the future.

Lydia Fitzpatrick's work has appeared in the The O. Henry Prize Stories 2016, The Best American Mystery Stories 2016, One Story, Glimmer Train, and Mid-American Review. She was a Wallace Stegner Fellow at Stanford University, a fiction fellow at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, and a recipient of an Elizabeth George Foundation Grant. She graduated from Princeton University and received an MFA from the University of Michigan. She lives in Los Angeles with her husband and two daughters.

A LIGHT IN DARK TIMES: THE NEW SCHOOL FOR SOCIAL RESEARCH AND ITS UNIVERSITY IN EXILE by Judith Friedlander

Founded in 1919 in the name of academic freedom, the New School for Social Research quickly became a pioneer in adult education—what its first president, Alvin Johnson, called “the continuing education of the educated.” During the 1920s, the New School became the place to go to hear famous people lecture on politics, the arts, and recent developments in new fields of inquiry such as anthropology and psychoanalysis. In 1933 Johnson opened the University in Exile within the New School, providing visas and jobs for nearly two hundred refugees fleeing Hitler. And through these exiled scholars, he re-created in miniature the great intellectual traditions of Europe's imperiled universities.

THE END OF GENETICS by David Goldstein (science)
DELIVERY: JANUARY 2019

Columbia University geneticist and science writer David Goldstein has come up with a new book project dealing with the relationship between society and the human genome, one which has just undergone a dramatic change. It has recently become possible to manipulate the genetic makeup of living breathing people, with tremendous ethical and scientific ramifications. While there have been attempts to explore these new and pressing issues in a book aimed at a general audience, none have gotten the “personal genomics book” for trade audiences quite right yet. David feels that this is the perfect moment to investigate this new field within genetics, and that he is uniquely posed to do it.

David Goldstein is the director of the Institute for Genomic Medicine at Columbia University. From 2010 to 2014, he served as Director of the Center for Human Genome Variation at Duke University. He is the author of Jacob's Legacy: A Genetic View of Jewish History (2009).

THE FINAL CASE by David Guterson (fiction)
PUBLICATION 2019

David Guterson's latest novel THE FINAL CASE is the story that unpacks the relationship between father and son. As a son hits a serious case of writer's block in his career as an author, his father pursues the last court case of his 55 year career as an attorney.

Told against the backdrop of this final case, in which Mary Willis is accused of causing the death of her adopted daughter, the narrator observes and reflects on the way his father has aged over the years and where he stands in comparison. In this suspenseful and heartfelt story, THE FINAL CASE asks readers to consider the relationship between parent and child and how this develops throughout our lives.

David Guterson is the author of three previous novels and a story collection, The Country Ahead of Us, The Country Behind. His debut novel, the #1 best-selling Snow Falling on Cedars, received the PEN/Faulkner Award and the American Booksellers Association Book of the Year Award. He is the author of East of the Mountains and Our Lady of the Forest.

UP FROM SANCTITY: SECULARISM, RELIGION, AND THE BATTLE FOR WOMEN’S RIGHTS by
Susan Jacoby (non-fiction)
DELIVERY: FEBRUARY 2019

In her next book, Susan Jacoby will tackle the history of the pivotal position of women’s rights in the conflict between secularization and various forms of religion, beginning with the Jewish Bible, proceeding through the early Christian era, and concentrating, for the most part, on the United States, England, and Europe from the Enlightenment through the present. At the heart of her argument and historical narrative is the conviction that the liberty of women, like freedom of conscience, is a secular and secularist concept.

Susan Jacoby is the author of ten books, including her most recent, Never Say Die (Pantheon, 2011), and the New York Times bestseller, The Age of American Unreason (Pantheon, 2008). Jacoby has been the recipient of many grants and awards, from the Guggenheim, Rockefeller and Ford Foundations as well as the National Endowment for the Humanities. Her articles and essays have appeared in The New York Times Magazine, Washington Post Book World, Los Angeles Times Book Review, Newsday, Harper’s, The Nation, Vogue, The American Prospect, Mother Jones, and the AARP Magazine, among other publications. She is also the author of the weekly column, “The Spirited Atheist,” at the On Faith website published by The Washington Post.

TERROR TO THE WICKED by Tobey Pearl (history)
DELIVERY: FALL 2018

TERROR TO THE WICKED will be the only full-length accounting of our nation's first true murder trial. In July of 1638, a young Nipmuc tribesman named Penowyanquis was murdered in the woods outside modern day Bourne, Massachusetts by four white men, runaway indentured servants from Plymouth Colony.

This crime (not only the first unwitnessed murder in the colonies but the first racially motivated killing) had serious implications for the developing nation. Though the Pequot War had begun to wind down in recent months, many feared that an innocent verdict in the trial would cause the as-yet-uninvolved tribes to join the Pequot in their war against the settlers. Such a shift would have been catastrophic for the colonies and, in all likelihood, would have wiped them out altogether. But a renewed war was not the only threat the colonies faced. The trial of Arthur Peach and his gang strained relationships between independent colonial governments, tried newly developing jurisdiction decisions, and tested an entire judicial system still in its infancy. In short, the Peach trial was likely one of the most important and groundbreaking in American history.

Tobey Pearl, a former lawyer and professor of mediation at Emerson College, first became interested in the story of the Peach Gang murder trial after stumbling upon her relation to the presiding judge, Plymouth Colony Governor Thomas Prentice.

OFF THE RAILS by Beppe Severgnini (Travel)

PUBLICATION: FEBRUARY 2019

In this witty and entertaining collection of travel tales, an acclaimed journalist explores his obsession with trains -- and what his rail journeys have taught him about culture and identity.

Beppe Severgnini has spent his life traveling the world, and not just because he's a journalist; he's a passionate, unflagging train buff. OFF THE RAILS recounts some of his favorite trips across Europe, Australia, Asia, and the U.S., each journey bringing readers not only to a different place but to a different time, from his honeymoon on the Trans-Siberian Express (in a four-person compartment!), to a winding journey from Russia to Turkey during the last summer of Communism, to a recent coast-to-coast trip with his son from Washington, D.C. to Washington State.

OFF THE RAILS is the perfect getaway for anyone with a touch of wanderlust, who dreams of escape or just likes to laugh. Filled with memorable characters and perceptive observations, it demonstrates—hilariously—what unites us.

Beppe Severgnini is a columnist for Italy's largest circulation daily newspaper, Corriere della Sera, and covered Italy for The Economist, from 1993 to 2003. He is the author of the international bestseller CIAO AMERICA.

HOUSE OF STONE by Novuyo Rosa Tshuma (fiction)
PUBLICATION: JANUARY 2019

In the chronic turmoil of Robert Mugabe's Zimbabwe, Abednego and Agnes Mlambo's teenage son, Bukhosi, has gone missing. Erudite, enigmatic Zamani, their lodger, seems to be their last, best hope for finding him. In his eagerness to help, Zamani is almost a part of the family – but almost isn't nearly enough. Ingratiating himself to Mama Agnes and feeding alcoholic Abednego's addiction, he is desperate to extract their life stories and make their family history his own. As the Mlambos pray for Bukhosi's return, Zamani will stop at nothing to make a home for himself – and each of them must confront the past to find a place in the future.

Bursting with wit, seduction and dark humor, Novuyo Rosa Tshuma's unflinching epic about the fall of Rhodesia and the turbulent birth of Zimbabwe celebrates the persistence of the oppressed in a nation seeking its identity amid political chaos and violence. "The result is absolutely thrilling" (Garth Greenwell).

Novuyo Rosa Tshuma is a young Zimbabwean writer and graduate of the Iowa Writers' Workshop. She's currently working toward a PhD at the University of Houston Creative Writing Program. Her short fiction has been featured in numerous African anthologies, including A Life in Full and Other Stories: Caine Prize Anthology, while her debut collection of short stories, Shadows, was published in 2013 by the South African publisher Kwela Books. Shadows was awarded the 2014 Herman Charles Bosman Prize for the best literary work in English and long listed for the 2014 Etisalat Prize for Literature. It received rave reviews from numerous readers, including NoViolet Bulawayo, who called the work "fierce and unsentimental."

VALENTINE by Elizabeth Wetmore (novel)
PUBLICATION: FEBRUARY 2020

It is 1976 and a West Texas oilfield town stands on the cusp of the next great oil boom. When a local girl—Glory Ramírez—survives a vicious assault amid the derricks and pumpjacks of the oil patch, Glory, along with the town's mothers and daughters, must grapple with the fallout. Simultaneously fierce and unflinching, often surprisingly tender, VALENTINE tells the stories of the women and girls caught up in the aftermath of a horrific crime: an urgent, timely, haunting exploration of the intersections of violence and race, class and region in a story that plumbs the depths of darkness and fear but ends in beauty and hope.

Elizabeth Wetmore's fiction has appeared or is forthcoming in Epoch, Kenyon Review, Colorado Review, Baltimore Review, Crab Orchard Review, Iowa Review and other journals. Two of her stories were nominated for Pushcart Prizes, and one received a Special Mention. A graduate of the Iowa Writers' Workshop, she is the recipient of a fellowship from the National Endowment for the Arts and two fellowships from the Illinois Arts Council as well as a grant from the Barbara Deming Foundation. In addition, she was a Rona Jaffe Scholar in Fiction at Bread Loaf and a Fellow at the MacDowell Colony. In the spring of 2015, she was one of six Writers in Residence at Hedgebrook

RED FAMINE by Anne Applebaum (history)

PUBLICATION: OCTOBER 2017

Anne Applebaum investigates the famine that swept the Soviet state during 1932 and 1933, the most lethal in European history and the most carefully covered up from the international world, in three parts. Of the 5 million who lost their lives during these food shortages, 3 million were Ukrainians. Applebaum will argue that this famine amounted to a state sanctioned genocide, that the policy of collectivization was used to kill millions and end political resistance in Ukraine. Part one will explain the famine's background, part two will describe how Soviet leadership turned a disaster into genocide against Ukrainian people, and part three will examine the consequences of the famine, both in the immediate aftermath and over many years.

Anne Applebaum is a columnist for the Washington Post and Slate, covering U.S. and international politics. She also runs a program on global transitions at the Legatum Institute in London, and in 2012-2013 held the Phillippe Roman chair in History and International Affairs at the London School of Economics. Her book, Gulag: A History, won the 2004 Pulitzer Prize for non-fiction, as well as Britain's Duff-Cooper Prize. Her most recent book, Iron Curtain, was nominated for a National Book Award.

THE MARRIAGE PACT by Michelle Richmond (fiction)

PUBLICATION: JULY 2017

When Alice and Jake get married one of her clients gives them a mysterious gift – an invitation to join a mysterious society of couples. At first they are excited to have been singled out to go to parties and meet exotic and successful people but soon they find out what happens when you don't follow the rules. They find themselves sucked into the sadistic culture at the core of the agreement they have made with "The Pact" and there doesn't seem to be any way out.

Michelle Richmond is the author of two short story collections and four novels, including The New York Times best-seller THE YEAR OF FOG which sold in over fifteen countries.
